

Summary

A modified Regional Trial B was conducted in San Carlos (Costa Rica), under humid tropical conditions, using 16 grasses. Modifications consisted in using grazing as a defoliation mechanism, a fixed 35-day rest period, and suspended maintenance fertilization during the second year. Forage production and nutritive value were measured between May 1991 and August 1993.